

Ronald Hicks Memorial Award sponsored by Mott MacDonald

Ronald Hicks was an honourable water professional recognised for his contribution to water and wastewater management in New Zealand from the mid-1950s - 1983. Ronald joined the Auckland Metropolitan Drainage Board from the UK as Chief Chemist at the time when the Manukau Sewerage Purification Works was under development. He became widely respected as an international authority on domestic and industrial wastewater treatment practices, and it was through his efforts from 1957 to 1959 that the NZ Sewage and Industrial Wastes Association, the forerunner of Water New Zealand, was formed. This award commemorates the contribution that Ronald Hicks made to water and wastewater management in New Zealand. Entrants must submit an article or paper that recognises significant work in solving or clarifying sewage treatment or water pollution problems in New Zealand.
